The Dugdale can-factory, on South Meridian street, near the Belt road, was destroyed by fire yesterday at noon. The foreman was about to close down for the dinner bour, when he saw flames issning from the top wheel of machine numbered 8 in a row of ten machines. He ran forward and tried to extinguish the biaze by the use of sand, a box of which is kept at each machine for such a purpose. The fire, had gained too much headbe handled in this manmuch valuable time was lost before the fire department was telephoned for, "The dry floor, grimy with dust and oil, made an inflammable pathway. which soon caused the machinery-room to be a mass of smoke and fire, and drove every body out of the building. The fifty girls who worked up stairs were warned in time to escape safely from the building. By the time the department arrived the build ng, which was a two-story frame, was doomed, and the two warehouses, one of brick and one of frame, had also caught fire. A second alarm was sent in by Chief Webster, in order to get a sufficient supply of bose. The shortest line laid out was attached to a ping 1,700 feet distant, on the corner of Paimer street and Meridian, and the next shortest was 2,000 feet in length, the water being pumped from a cistern. Two other lines, of still greater length, exhausted alike the supply of hose and the pressure of the stream, on account of friction. Chief Webster said the pressure was not sufficient to throw the water thirty feet, while the heat was so intense it was hardly bearable to approach within building. The conflagration received no check, therefore, and only the walls of the brick ware-house remain where before was a busy hive of industry. Chief Webster expressed the opinion last night that the ware-house could have been saved, if instead of fighting the fire with sand, an alarm had been sent in at once. A small store-house containing five barrels of gaso-lene caught fire in the roof, but fortunnately the flames were quenched in time to save the building and to prevent additional danger from the inflammable contents. The origin of the fire is nuknown. Natural gas was used at each machine in soldering the cans, but just how the jet at machine No. 8 got beyond control no one knows. It was circling about an upper wheel when discovered, nobody being at

A Journal reporter interviewed Mr. William Dugdale, president and manager of the plant, but learned nothing more than is given above. Mr. Dugdale said it was not true that a bunch of waste or oily rags had ignited in the hands of one of the girls and had then been thrown upon the floor. The account in the Evening News The account in the Evening News was said to be wrong in many particulars. Mr. Dugdale also said that until he could examine the books and records of the stock on hand, which were saved intact, he could not approximate the loss, which was nearly total, very close to, and might reach $75,000. It was, however, inlly covered by the insurance, as it was the policy of the company to insure to the full extent. The season, he said, had well advanced, and would probably have closed in four to six weeks, depending on the coming of frost. He did not think the stock on hand amounted to much less than 1,000,000 cans. The number of employes thrown out of work is 120. "This caused me much regret," said he, "for it will work a hardship upon worthy and trusted people. I cannot tell what our decision as to rebuilding will be until I hear from Mr. George L. Prebs, the vice-president, and John Black, treasurer, both of whom live in Baltimore. My impression, however, is that we will rebuild at once, and in that case it will not require many months until we are at work again. Our machinery is of American make and can be secured with little require many months until we are at work again. Our machinery is of American make, and can be secured with little delay. The capital stock of the company is $150,000. We cut up fifty thousand boxes of tin in a year. Several orders were received for cans since the fire, but we will have to turn them down. We supply the Van Camp Packing Company with all their cans, but fortunately they have a supply stored in their warehouse sufficient to carry them through the season. Our total output in a year's time aggregates from therefore to fifteen million cans, according to the season. Our factory here began operations in April, 1809."

BIG ENTERPRISES AT HAMMOND.

Immense Cotton Plant and a Concern to Manufacture Motors and Storage Batteries.

HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 22.-The Stony City Land Syndicate, of lows, has purchased 1,400 lots, amounting to 140 acres, in the manufacturing city of Hammond. The price paid for the property, including some scattered improvements, is $250,000. A cotton-mill is to be erected on the property, and a plant for the manufacture of electric motors and storage batteries.

While the tract has been subdivided, it is not yet fully improved. It is located in the southern portion of Hammond. The Louisville, New Albany & Chicago road forms its west line, while the Erie road runs across its northeast corner. In addition to these roads, connections can readily be made with the numerous lines entering Hammond, which include the Michigan Central, Fort Wayne, Nickel-plate, Calumet Terminal and Western In-dians railroads. The land also fronts on Calumet avenue, the main street of Ham-mond, which is now improved with sewers and macadam pavement. Mr. Towle, the seller of the land, is the original settler of Hammond, and has lived there for twenty-two years. He still owns much property in the town and its vicinity. He purchased bales, each of one thousand yards of cloth, produced by seventy five thousand spindles, requiring two hundred operatives. If the enterprise is successful the product will be increased. No attempt will be made to manufacture fancy cloths, but brown hollands will be the staple product.

The Northwestern Electric Motor Company is a newly incorporated concern, capitalized at $1,000,000, which will erect a plant for the manufacture of street-ear motors and storage batteries under the pat-ents of Theodore M. Foote, the inventor of the American rapid telegraph system and the stock ticker. The officers and principal stockholders of this concern are among the financial magnates of Chicago and New York. Ten acres of ground will be used for

It is claimed by Frank Weeks, the general manager of the company, that Mr. Foote's patents mark an era in progress in electricity. His method is to employ two motors for each car, weighing 600 pounds each, as against motor weight of 1,80 pounds under the old system. These machines will develop twenty horse power, as against thirty horse power on the old plan. By a special gearing speed becomes converted into power, so that twenty-horse power for speed becomes sixty-horse power for power. This is of great importance, as by diminishing speed from twenty to six miles per hour power is trebled, and steep grades and sharp curves are readily surmounted and rounded.

On Sept. 20 the amount of mail for New York State taken out of Chicago by one train was as tollows: Four hundred and forty-five packages or 17,800 letters, and 115 sacks or 23,000 papers. The responsibility of the New York distribution rested with H. E. Thiele, who went to work with a will and with such assistance as could be rendered by clerks who are assigned the various distributtons. The paper distribution was comin the case when the train pulled into Toledo, O., a distance of 245 miles, which was made in seven hours. Mr. Thiel was arpointed to the mail service in May, 1867. and his home is in Indianapolis.

FORTIETH ANNUAL SESSION

Southeast Indiana M. E. Conference Called to Orden by Bishop Foster.

A PATHETIC ROLL-CALL

Rev. Joseph Tarkington's Name Read for the Last Time in the Conference. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

AURORA, Ind., Sept. 23 .- The Southeast Indiana Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church convened in this city at 9 o'clock this morning, to hold its fortieth annual session. Bishop Randolph Sinks Foster, resident Methodist Episcopal Bishop in Boston, is the president of the conference for this year. The opening services were conducted by one of the oldest members of the conference, after which the roll was called by Rev. E. L. Dolph, the secretary of the last session. This first calling of the roll is always a most solemn and pathetic piece of business, as the first formal and official announcement is then made of the names of the ministers who have died during the year. The first name on the list of this conference for many years has been that of Joseph Tarkington, of Greensburg. To-day his name was called for the last time, as the old hero went home to be crowned yesterday. It is supposed that he was the oldest minister in the State at the time of his death. After the call was finished, the officers of the conference were elected, as follows: Secretary, Rev. E. L. Dolph; assistants, Rev. L. D. Moore and Rev. D. A. Robertson; statistical secretary, Rev. C. W. Tinsley; assistants, Rev. F. S. Tincher and Rev. M. A. Farr. Mr. William Newkirk, a wellknown laymen of Connersville, was chosen as conference treasurer, with Rev. C. E. Line and Rev. George Wood as assistants. The organization of the conference being completed, the venerable and most reverend bishop took occasion to speak his words of greeting to the conference.

It is now seventeen years since Bishop
Foster visited this conference. As a philosophical preacher, doubtless Bishop Foster sophical preacher, doubtless Bishop Foster is the peer of any minister ever produced by the American churches. The great genius of Henry Ward Beecher and the magnetic power of Bishop Simpson are treely conceded. They were as unlike Bishop Foster as the seraphic Bishop Bowman is unlike the dramatic Bishop Fowier. But as a philosophical logician Bishop Foster belongs in the first rank.

The case of the Key, Joseph Tarkington. The cane of the Kev. Joseph Tarkington, deceased, was presented to the conference, with the request that it be carried by the oldest minister in the body. At each conference session the secretary will announce the name of the venerable minister who is entitled to carry the cane for the year.

The Bishop announced the reception of a draft for $1,000 from the Book Concern, to be distributed among the worn out preachers and their widows and orphans. The profits of the Methodist Book Concern are over a quarter of a million dollars a year. A part of that profit is every year distributed among the worn-out preachers. This year $110,000 are so distributed, and the portion which comes to the Southeast Indiana Conference amounts to $1,000, as

Friday, at 10 o'clock, the election of delegates to the General Conference will take place. During the first hour of the session of that day the vote will be taken on the several matters which have been handed down by the General Conference. The "woman question" is on the list—that is, the question of the eligibility of women as members of the electoral and the general conferences. To-morrow the class for admission into full connection will be addressed by Bishop To-morrow the class for admission into full connection will be addressed by Bishop Foster. The transferred ministers and the visiting ministers of other churches were introduced and warmly greeted. Rev. J. B. Lathrop, of Greensburg, was readmitted to the traveling connection. He will take what is called a supernumerary relation without appointment.

Three of the presiding elders reported the work of their districts, and the character of each elder in these districts was passed. Every year a Methodist preacher's character must be passed in open conference.
When the name of the venerable and beloved Thomas H. Lynch, D. D., of Indianapolis was called the bishop inquired after him with evident affection. Bishop Foster and Dr. Lynch were associated together in close relationships over fifty years ago. Messages of affection were ordered sent to the aged ministers who cannot be present at the conference session.
Dr. J. E. Gilbert, the general superintendent of the American Institute of Religious Education, reported his work for the past year at the time when his name was called, and his character passed. Much interest was shown by the ministers two years. He still owns much property in the town and its vicinity. He purchased the tract about one year ago.

The plant to be erected will cost about $200,000. It will be of a capacity of fifty below such of one thousand arrade of class.

A Traveled Dog. Kokomo Gazette-Tribune.

A week ago Thursday, when A. N. Grant's excursion went to Chicago, Roy Marine's pet rat terrier dog, Fred, started with the y, going as far as Michigan City. Ear loy's son, with the dog got on the train at the lower depot, Earl getting off at the Clover-leaf crossing, a fact the canine did not notice, and he remained aboard, to be thrown on a strange and unsympathizing world at Michigan City. On the way there the animal was seen walking through the cars several times looking in vain for a friendly face. "Fred" was sadly missed at home, where he was a great pet, especially with Mrs. Marine, who cared for him as if he were a child. None of them ever expected to see him again, but in this they were agreeably surprised. Wednesday night, a week after his disappearance, a faint bark and whine was beard at the door. There the dog stood covered with sand-burs, lank and gaunt in body, with feet sore and swollen, the latter being by far the biggest part of him, except his appetite, which seemed several sizes too large for his present architecture. He was so weak he could scarcely walk. He has slept nearly all the time since arriving home, having evidently traveled several hundred miles in hunting his way back.
